

James martin is an Scottish man that just moved into the Midwest united states. He is hungry

He orders some food but the worker does not understand him

Luckily he used our new app to translate for him and got his food

Giovanni Rossi is an old italian man visiting his oldest son who lives in California.

His son decides he is going to take his father to a nice restaurant to celebrate him visiting.

While they are ordering, the waitress cannot understand Giovanni because of his Italian accent and asks him to repeat himself multiple times until she finally guesses what he is ordering.

Giovanni tells his son that this happens all of the time and he is tired of it.

The son shows him this new app that can translate broken english and accents so people will understand them better.

Giovanni's son downloads the app for him on the spot and Giovanni is able to order dessert with ease.

Johnny has just moved to Austria and can not wait to go out, meet new people, and make more friends.

He has a moving company move him into his house. He tries to talk to the movers but realizes that they have a very different vocabulary than him and he can't figure out what "Oi mate" means.

Johnny goes to a local social event and once again hears the locals using lots of slang to talk to each other. He is too embarrassed to ask so just stands quietly instead.

Johnny gets home and is very sad that he hasn't been able to make any friends. He decides to call some of his home town friends.

His friend told him about a new app that can help translate any english slang or accent into another. Johnny quickly downloaded the app and decided to try it out

Johnny tries the app out at his next social gathering. He quickly is able to translate all of the australian slang and learn it with the helpful learn mode. He soon becomes a pro thanks to the app, and begins to make a ton of friends and girlfriends.

When Akshay was a kid back in school he would always get bullied for not speaking good english

Akshay went back home and went to the app store to look for an app that would help him learn fluent English. It was called the “English App”

Little boy Akshay was studying every day and everywhere he went. He was determined to speak good english.

He was even studying in the bathroom. He studied for 3 month straight.

My name is Akshay and I can speak good English!

By the 3 month mark he was able to speak good english to all his classmates.
